It took 5 people to help me clean my teeth.

Looking good. It's important to most young men. Even if you are unable to do it all yourself. Like Simon who has cerebral palsy and has moved into supported accommodation. His Learning Disabilities team, led by his nurse David, has helped Simon gain the confidence to accept daily help to maintain his personal hygiene. If you're interested in nursing or returning to nursing, you'll find the NHS is changing. Providing financial support during training, greater career progression and more flexible working conditions including access to childcare and part-time opportunities. Plus the pay is getting better. The starting salary of a newly qualified full-time nurse is now at least £16,005 (in inner London at least £19,873 p.a.) and a pay increase is due from April 2003.
